

GLORY BE TO GOD

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE EMBLEM

The Karunya Emblem has a human face to indicate that the well being of humanity is central to our entire endeavors and that we shall never forget them in the midst of our equations and diagrams.

The symbol has a gear wheel as the human eye, in appreciation of the importance of technology in today's world;

The lighted torch stands for the light of knowledge, the light that promises moral, social and economic well being;

The hand holding the torch depicts Karunya's contribution to the cause, helping hand that spreads knowledge, the kindly light of education.

It has the motto 'ARISE AND SHINE' - Karunya's message to the youth of the country.

To sum up, Karunya's emblem reflects the University's mission in knowledge creation and dissemination, value addition to men and materials and optimization of human potential for national development in all its ramifications for a bright future.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

Academic Integrity:

Assignments, tests, and examinations are designed for students to show the instructor how well they have mastered the course material. When the instructor evaluates the student's work, it must therefore be clear which ideas and words are the student's own. In general there must be academic integrity in the students doing course work and producing an original thesis in which acknowledgement is given for other people's ideas or works. Students should be aware that, while collaborative or group work on assignments may be encouraged in some disciplines, it is not acceptable in others. Discussion of ideas with faculty and other students is both allowable and important, provided that credit is given in written work for ideas that are not one's own. Group study is likewise permissible unless explicitly forbidden by the instructor.

Violations – Acts of Academic Misconduct:

Acts of academic dishonesty or misconduct include acts which contravene the general principles. In this section, some of these acts are described. Others which are not explicitly described here may also be considered academic misconduct. All forms of academic misconduct are considered serious offences within the University community.

Cheating:

Cheating constitutes academic misconduct. Cheating is dishonest behavior (or the attempt to behave dishonestly), usually in tests or examinations. It includes:

- Unless explicitly authorized by the course instructor or examiner, using books, notes, diagrams, electronic devices, or any other aids during an examination, either in the examination room itself or when permitted to leave temporarily;
- Copying from the work of other students.
- Communicating with others during an examination to give or receive information, either in the examination room or outside it;
- Consulting other on a take-house examination (unless authorized by the course instructor);
- Commissioning or allowing another person to write an examination on one's behalf;
- Not following the rules of an examination;
- Using for personal advantage, or communicating to other students, advance knowledge of the content of an examination (for example, if permitted to write an examination early);
- Altering answers on an assignment or examination that has been returned;
- Taking an examination out of the examination room if this has been forbidden.

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism is a form of academic dishonesty in which one person submits or presents the work of another person as his or her own, whether from intent to deceive, lack of understanding, or carelessness. Unless the course instructor states otherwise, it is allowable and expected that students will examine and refer to the ideas of others, but these ideas must be incorporated into the student's own analysis and must be clearly acknowledge through footnotes, endnotes, or other practices accepted by the academic community. Students' use of others' expression of ideas, whether quoted verbatim or paraphrased, must also be clearly acknowledged according to acceptable academic practice. It is the responsibility of each student to learn what constitutes acceptable academic practice. Plagiarism includes the following practices:

- Not acknowledging an author or other source for one or more phrases, sentences, thoughts, code, formulae, or arguments incorporated in written work, software, or other assignments (substantial plagiarism);
- Presenting the whole or substantial portions of another person's paper, report, piece of software, etc. as an assignment for credit, even if that paper or other work is cited as a source in the accompanying bibliography or list of references (complete plagiarism). This includes essays found on the internet.

Students who are uncertain what plagiarism is should discuss their methodology with their instructors.

In addition to the matters described above, academic misconduct subject to discipline also includes (but is not limited to) the following:

- Falsifying lab results;
- Padding a bibliography with works not read or used;

- Helping another student in an act of academic dishonesty; for example, writing a test or paper for someone else, or preparing materials for another student's study project;
- Providing false or incomplete information or supporting documents/materials on an application for admission, re-admission, or transfer;
- Providing false information to obtain a deferral of term work or examination;
- Altering or falsifying, or attempting to alter or falsify, grade information or other records of academic performance (one's own or someone else's);
- Obtaining or attempting to obtain an academic advantage by non-academic means such as bribes or threats;
- Hindering other students in obtaining fair access to University materials and facilities; for example, cutting an article out of a Library copy of a journal;
- Theft of another student's notes;
- Alteration or destruction of the work of other students;
